State Performance Plan (SPP) Indicators - In 2004, the IDEA was reauthorized to align more closely with the Elementary and Secondary Education Act's (ESEA) standards of accountability. The IDEA required that each state develop a six-year State Performance Plan (SPP) for special education and early intervention programs. The SPP is comprised of indicators that measure the state's performance on these indicators.

The indicators can be classified into two types: results indicators, which have targets set by each state, and compliance indicators, which have targets set by the Office of Special Education programs (at either 100 percent or 0 percent).

Each year Michigan gathers data from school districts and other sources for each indicator. These data are compiled into an Annual Performance Report (APR), which summarizes Michigan's progress toward the state and federally established targets.

Public Reporting – The IDEA requires states to publicly report each school district's performance in meeting the targets for specific indicators. For 2011 public reporting, states are required to report state and district performance on the following indicators:

1. Graduation
2. Dropout
3. Statewide Assessment
4. Suspension/Expulsion
5. Educational Environments (least restrictive environment)
7. Preschool Outcomes
8. Facilitated Parent Involvement
9. Disproportionate Representation—Child with a Disability
10. Disproportionate Representation—Eligibility Category
11. Child Find
12. Early Childhood Transition

The State of Michigan Office of Special Education and Early Intervention Services (OSE-EIS) website makes it easy to access these public reports by intermediate school district (ISD) or by local school district. A click on the desired indicator yields a description of the indicator, the state's performance on the indicator, and the district's performance on the indicator, typically accompanied by a bar graph.
